About Techexchange.com

Techexchange.com is an online trade publication and sourcing portal devoted exclusively to technology solutions for the sewn products industry. Since 1995, it has focused on emerging technologies that provide competitive advantage for manufacturers and retailers alike.

Its in-depth coverage of industry-specific technologies includes a broad range of technology all along the supply chain – from product design and development to production, warehousing, distribution, sales, and marketing.

The site features:

- Vendor & Service Directory
The directory allows visitors to search for technology-specific products, services and consumables by business processes and operating systems. In addition to the value this brings to prospective customers, vendors frequently use it to source partners for strategic alliances.
- News
This section features information and announcements regarding new products, technology upgrades, and alliances in the technology area for the global sewn products industry.
- Library
Editorial content, white papers and case studies designed to enlighten visitors and deliver educated prospects to technology providers. The library also features a selection of video links that are updated regularly to highlight some of the most interesting innovations in key technology areas.
- Events & Programs
Information on trade shows, conferences and seminars around the world that are focused on advanced technology. Special events including webinars are also featured.
- Industry Resources
Find and connect with associations, publications and institutions of learning and research of relevance to the textile, apparel and broader sewn product industries.

About [TC]² - Turning Research Into Reality

[TC]² serves as a resource to the sewn products industry for developing innovative processes, demonstrating emerging technologies, and training its diverse workforce. Its initiatives include the broad investigation and demonstration of supporting technologies; education, training, and consulting services to strategically and tactically implement business practices; and leading-edge technology development.

Advertiser Benefits

- An Established Publication
Techexchange.com has been a technology resource for the industry since 1995, and is supported by the Who's Who of technology vendors in the markets it serves. The site is marketed through industry publications and events, and is linked to by over 500 web sites.
- Highly Targeted
With its dedicated focus on technology for the sewn products industry, Techexchange.com provides uniquely targeted opportunities for its advertisers.
- Versatile
Techexchange.com offers a broad range of advertising opportunities to support specific objectives.
- Great Value
In addition to being less expensive and more targeted than print advertising, other benefits include:
 - the ability to publish white papers and case studies in the library
 - published technology news articles will be linked to advertiser's web site, providing not only instant access to additional information, but the potential for higher ranking in the commercial search engines
